

REMEMBERING HISTORY PROJECT

For June 9th, International Archives Day, ATD Fourth World International, in conjunction with the Joseph Wresinski Centre, is highlighting ATD's work related to archiving and documenting the history of those in deep poverty.

Launched in July 2015 by the Joseph Wresinski Centre (JWC), the Remembering History Project allows ATD Fourth World activists, Volunteer Corps members, and academics to work together on the history of ATD's first 10 years in an emergency housing camp near the town of Noisy-le-Grand, France.

After much thought, the group produced ten videos and a number of articles that it feels best capture the early history of ATD Fourth World. The goal of these videos and articles is to make ATD's early history available to anyone so that all ATD members can claim it as their own.

Research was largely based on archives from Noisy-le-Grand (volumes 0200, 0201, and 0204) and additional archives on life in the emergency camp from the Joseph Wresinski collection (0772). This project has uncovered a few key ideas, which effectively illustrate the unique approach of Joseph Wresinski (1917-1988), founder of ATD Fourth World, in his deeply committed work with families living in the camp:

- Joseph Wresinski and NGO 's Emmaüs and "Foster Parents" at the Noisy-le-Grand camp;
- How Joseph Wresinski dealt with people living in the camp;
- An activist remembers his encounter with Joseph Wresinski.

James Jaboureck, a member of the JWC research group "Pôle Recherches" and project facilitator, comments,

Above Photo: Joseph Wresinski at the "Réalité ouvrière du sous prolétariat" ("The Working Life of People in Poverty") Forum in Lille (France), 7 May 1983

© Luc Prisset/ATD Fourth World Centre Joseph Wresinski 0272-006-001_48