Have you heard about October 17th?

The World Day for Overcoming Extreme Poverty is celebrated every 17th of October.

This day aims to make the voice of the poorest heard, so that they can express themselves, speak about the inhuman conditions they live in, their daily resistance to poverty and their aspirations for a humane and decent life.

Each year, a theme is chosen by the United Nations (UN) to accompany the celebration of this day. This theme can be adapted according to the reality of people.

For this year, Tapori proposes the following theme:

“Different but equal: Let’s act together to respect the rights of everyone!”

Tapori also invites children to participate in this day.

The poster we are presenting is a tool to encourage you to talk about October 17th around you. It already contains the theme and speaks about the Rights of the Child.

Each Tapori group decides what they want to do.

The goal is to allow each of you to express yourself on the proposed theme. Then communicate your message and invite people around you (adults and children) to think about it too.

Choose your setting: exhibition, walk, various expression workshops ...
